SPEECH:

Since it has been said that 95% of one's time is devoted to thinking and speaking, it behooves one to learn the most effective way to express himself, his oral language, and his visible action. Unfortunately, Americans neglect this part of their education.

The aim of any speech class is to relate the pupil's vocal expression to his every-day needs. One is judged daily by his voice, whether he realizes it or not.

Because of the extreme importance of speech in normal living situations, an opportunity is given to learn how to make announcements, introductions, presentation and acceptance talks, descriptions, and explanations. It is understood that thinking precedes speech. Therefore topics are given to encourage logical, well-balanced thought. Also related to speech is facial and bodily expression. By means of pantomimes and short readings the pupils are taught how to make a speech more alive and interesting through complete body control.

Other topics which the students in public-speaking will remember are: poetry and monologues given with expression, radio programs, oral book reports, declamations, interviews, oral reading for emphasis, inflection, tone quality, autobiographies, and the reading and writing of plays.

LEISURE:

The library functions mainly as an agent for leisure-time reading. The students are privileged to browse through the books and magazines, reading what appeals to them and discarding that which does not. Directed reading is done through the English classes, but it is interesting to observe what the students read when free from pressure. They tend to read mostly current-events magazines with LIFE and TIME leading the list. A certain group always "heads" for the POPULAR SCIENCE and POPULAR MECHANICS which seem to come only too seldom to suit these avid young readers. The demand for popular modern novels is far above the Senior High School Library's supply, and some must wait weeks or even months—for the opportunity to read the book of their choice. It is interesting to note how much more use is made of the library by the sophomores who were initiated into the world of books in the new Junior High School Library, and how they far outrank the other classes in their ability and desire to read. The library gives to the students an opportunity to enlarge their knowledge of the world and world events, and it is gratifying to know that they are making the most of the opportunity.

SCIENCE:

As the war progresses, its influence is felt more and more throughout the country. This influence is reflected greatly in our science department which has recognized its role in the country's war effort.

Never before has a war depended so much upon science, and never before has so much responsibility been placed on the shoulders of the instructors who constitute this department—Miss Malloy, Mr. Briston, and Mr. [Name]. Under these capable instructors, those vitally important scientific subjects are being put across to the students who will become the officers and men of the [Army/Navy] that will lead us to final victory.

. . . In The Years To Come

"All aboard! All aboard!" The Class of '44 Special leaving on Track 9 for the tenth annual reunion of the Class of 1944. The train is quite filled, except for those whom we have to pick up between here and Monaca. Let's "mosey" through the train to see who there is to see. Now, who is that? Oh, yes, that's Josephine Ridder. Jo is an excellent writer of short stories. Beside her is Betty Yanik, one of the highest paid private secretaries in the country. They are talking to Evelyn Primo, buyer from Gimbels Department Store, and Grace Fox, model in one of those swanky Fifth Avenue shops. Across the aisle Glenn Wilson, famous band leader, is talking to Ray Hild, his saxophone player, about one of their musical arrangements (we think). Just as we were getting on the train, we noticed that June Anderson, Navy nurse, and Ella Anderson, trained nurse, were talking to George Forrest, the high-pressure salesman. Now, they are watching two Merchant Marines—Captain Donald Stakic and his first mate, Sanford Busang, deep in conversation. We are wondering what they are talking about! Sitting in front of them is Dale Watkins, the real estate salesman, who is bound and determined to sell Sidney Gibson, the sports reporter, the Brooklyn Bridge. Across the aisle is Anthony Taormina, who now owns a chain of fruit stores, and, in the same seat, is Helen Bobish—fashion designer with Saks. The train is slowing up now, so we take this opportunity to talk with Violet Fauser who won the Pulitzer prize in journalism last year.

Well, look who just got on. If it isn't the Mayor of Big Town himself, none other than Gerald Laughlin, the shrewdest politician who ever lost an election. With him are his staff and crew of high-paid stenographers including Henry Trella, chief adviser and financial manager; Doris Smith and Celia Vancovich, his secretaries. Alma Greiner and Virginia Boris, of the Quaker City, also got on at the last stop. We are informed Alma is a librarian, and Virginia is a receptionist.

Let's walk along through some of the other coaches to see who else is here. Ahhh! this is the diner. Over at the first table are those businessmen, Albert Krall and Walter Everly, both efficiency experts. With them are Rita Cribben, popular Broadway actress with Edwin Herman, her press agent, and Donald Mandish—the male lead who keeps everyone laughing.

The next table is reserved by the engineers. They seem to be discussing a big problem as can be surmised by the way that William McCullough, chemical engineer, is throwing his hands around. Charles Johnston, an electrical engineer, disagrees; however, Robert Matascik and John Weigel, aeronautical engineers, and Lewis Fredricks, consulting engineer, seem to lean to McCullough. Nearby, the nurses are enjoying themselves greatly, as they listen to Betty Schupay tell about her wealthy patients. Let's see if we can remember them. Why sure, they are Eleanor Martincek, Eunice Schachern, and Gladith Mateer.

We find there, at a table for two, those great athletes, James Hill, boxer, and Joseph Korak, a professional baseball player; speaking to them is Robert Bell, a pro-football player. Just leaving the diner are June Kallberg, who works for the government, and Gloria Mae Kugel, who runs a large dairy farm. We leave the diner to continue our train visits. Oops! excuse us, why it's little Anna Mae Ballard, the airline hostess. We surely are happy to greet her.

Ah! ha! This is the air-conditioned chair car, and there, seeking inspiration, is Wilhelmina Blasche, who recently published a volume of her own poems, and with her is Calvin Barto, her publisher. Sitting near by are those two beautiful models—Rose Ann Jaros and Cecelia Konevich, who appear in many popular advertisements. With them are Imogene McCowin and Doris Sickles, now starring in Hollywood's best, talking with Edward Johnson, a race-car driver, and Fred Vogt, an illustrator for one of the men's fashion magazines.

Opposite them, Mary Lou Graeser, owner of the Graeser Music Store, is asking the porter how far it is from Monaca, and John Tonsetic, a C.P.A., is laughing at her impatience to get back to the old home town. Nearby is a little card game in session. Richard Shafer, owner of a group of drug stores, and Pete Castronovo, publisher of a large metropolitan newspaper, are standing Walter Poliak, the national skeet-shooting champ. The latter seems to be winning through the help of Robert Beharka, Hollywood film idol. Over at the magazine rack, Wanita Bauer, New York librarian, is explaining one of the book reviews to Joanne Gallagher, high school principal, and Betsy Herchenroether, a grade school teacher. Mary Louise Mecklem and Lois Knopp are leafing through another magazine. "Pete" runs a nursery school, and Lois designs women's clothes. Sitting in front of them is Anna Heckman, concert pianist, working out a difficult score, while Lenora Huffmyer, stenographer, leans over her shoulder and asks the why of all the little black dots. Anni Salberg, fashion expert of Paris and Rochester, is playing a fast game of dominoes with John Snyder, the transport pilot, as Lloyd Daugherty, auto expert, remarks that galloping dominoes are much more fun to play.

The train is stopping again, and the first ones to get on this time are Betty Jane Figley and Ida Massey, who own their own beauty shop. Olga Matko is their hair stylist. Here comes Anna Martinkovich bouncing up the aisle, taking reservations for the reunion to be held at her inn. Eleanor McCandless, her secretary, is right behind her with the records. All aboard again—here comes Anna Lewarchik, employed at Donahoes, on the run as usual.

Let's go back to the observation platform to get a little fresh air. What a happy thought, for we see so many familiar faces. Over there is Andrew Lopota, the Army pilot, and across from him is John Mattica, the famous criminal lawyer. These doors are hard to open. Ah! thanks, Earl. That's Earl Brummitt, swing drummer in Benny Goodman's band. As we pass Catherine Himes, the cooking expert, we hear her questioning the porter as to whether they serve real cream in the coffee. There certainly is a strong wind back here on the observation platform, but Ruth Skvolka and Dorothy Revay don't seem to mind. Ruth is a star reporter on the Chicago Morning News, and "Dot" is society editor on the same sheet. It's too drafty out here for us, let's go in to see Mary Yambresic who is private secretary to

Fred Lindemann, owner of the Stringy Wingy Spaghetti Company.

The last coach is almost over-crowded — there are Dorothy Williams and Anna Marie Shepard who work in a New York bank. A little farther are Betty Wonert and Angeline Lucci who own a swanky Park Avenue pet shop. Jean Farinacci, promoter of a summer camp, is coming over to talk with Anna Battaglia, stenographer in a casting office, and Catherine Antoline, proprietor of the Kate Candy Shop.

Near the front of the car, Dorothy Ciccozzi and Grace Slater are going over some recent press clippings. "Dot" has become a dancer, and Grace is one of the golden voices of radio fame. Now, whom do we see but the three successful business women—Ellenora Zachodni, Veronica Wywrot, and Emilie Daniel, teachers in their own business colleges.

Well, as we glance out the window, the familiar scenes which greet us indicate that we are nearing Monaca, the home of our own Alma Mater. Everyone else seems to notice it too, for soon there is hustling and excitement everywhere. What a rush! Just like old times. George Rowse, in an Army uniform, is assisting Grace Folland, leader of an all-girl band, to get her suitcase down. Jean Troy, receptionist, can't find her hat, because Frances Trella, garden expert, is sitting on it. John Kovach, professional photographer, is helping his secretary, Olivemae Sergeant, with her coat. Waiting their turn to go out of the door are Jean Strausser, food demonstrator at General Mills, and Marguerite Locke, chief telephone operator in Pittsburgh.

After counting heads, we find that there is a one hundred per cent attendance at the tenth annual reunion of the Class of '44. All these famous people, once members of this class, are casting off their robes of success, and once more are the happy seniors of ten years ago, swarming to their favorite haunts with their old friends.

We close this make-believe prophecy with a secret wish in our hearts that in the years to come such a reunion will be realized.

Seniors Draw Near To "Pomp and Circumstance"

On September 7, we started for the last lap of our high school career. We had come through the first three turnings with flying colors, and it was our ambition to win the race as true Monacans. Those chosen to lead us in the race were

President	Glenn Wilson
Vice President	Rose Ann Jaros
Secretary	Betty Schupay
Treasurer	Eleanor Martincek

Without the faithful coaching and training of Miss Hegner, our sponsor, we would have been far behind at the finish line.

This year's Senior Class was noted for its individuality, its excellent constitution adopted in the freshman year, its high scholastic standing, and its 100% support of every school affair.

Our entire senior year was darkened by the departure of some of our classmates for service in the armed forces. We really miss them in the halls and classes, but we are intensely proud of the job they are doing.

Along with other non-essentials, we sacrificed some of our activities and jumped head first into doing all we could to promote the War Effort. Our senior boys came through when they began working part-time in the mills. The girls, not to be outdone, also worked part-time, chiefly clerking. The senior boys and girls knew sales technique when it came to selling war bonds and stamps. Not only did they prove their ability as sales experts, but they had a good time promoting our country's cause.

When we ordered our invitations and name cards, we felt that the end of our race was near.

November 19 came next on our calendar of events with the presentation of our Senior Play, "Mrs. Miniver," by an excellent, well-chosen cast.

Another senior-year accent was the holding of the Junior-Senior Prom. It was a gala affair and everyone had a grand time.

Our Baccalaureate exercises were held on May 24. As we were assembled in cap and gown in the auditorium, the sudden awakening that the race of Class of '44 was reaching its final lap, left a note of sadness in our hearts.

May 24 was our most memorable day. With unseen tears and humble pride in our hearts, we marched down the aisle of the auditorium to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance." When we received our diplomas, we became conscious that now we were alumni of our Alma Mater—the Monaca High School.

MIDDLE CLASS

We are now members of the middle class;
Some are in Room No. 13 with Mr. Glass,
Some have had to fight toe to toe
In the office with Mr. Groleau.

We are now at the second station
In our senior high school education,
The third station is our goal,
And to get our names on the honor roll

We are now climbing in high gear
Towards the highest without fear,
Though our forward progress is slow,
From Monaca High School we'll be sorry to go
—Homer Rambo

... Forward Ever - - Backward Never

"Old Father Time" has prophesied that the in-coming class of seniors will be the peppiest and most spirited students to be graduated from the Monaca High School. We can well foresee that prophecy, when we present a few of our gay, light-hearted juniors

Dorothy Krebs, our class president, hopes to become a famous radio singer. She is an admirer of Deanna Durbin, her favorite actress. She chooses as her best subjects, French and Plane Geometry

Pat Hill, one of our junior basketball stars, is ambitious to become a basketball coach in the future. Bookkeeping and U. S. History are the subjects which he prefers

Colleen Wilson, the most studious girl, whom we all admire, wishes to become a grand opera singer. Among her subjects, Shorthand and Typewriting are her favorite ones

Dale Laughner, our versatile junior, takes part in all activities and chooses law as his life's vocation

The arrival of our unique design, yellow, white, and pink gold class ring, which we deemed wise to select during our sophomore year, due to war shortages, made us full-fledged upperclassmen

Realizing that we needed a Junior Class Fund, we engaged in the treasury projects of a Peanut Brittle Sale, at the time of goblins, witches, and scare-crows—Hallowe'en, Valentine Candy Sale, and our Class Play

Through the years, the juniors have always given a farewell party for the seniors in the form of a Junior-Senior Prom. The memories of this year's beautiful occasion will ever be cherished and ever live long in the minds of those who shared in these festivities. During the year, we were conscious of the closer friendship ties existing among the two classes and this spirit of good fellowship prevailed during that memorable evening

Well, Juniors, we should not let "Old Father Time" down! His prophecy must come true. Monaca High must be proud of the Class of '45

WE — THE SOPHOMORES

Now 'tis told that we are green,
 But it won't be long 'til we are one machine
 As each day advances through the year,
 We are learning how to set the gear;
 For soon we shall pass to the Junior Class
 —James Kroskey

... Green, But Still Growing

Looking in our crystal ball, we find the sophomores entering Monaca High School ready for the beginning of the "last stretch". Under the guiding hand of Miss Marion and with a little help from our upperclassmen, the juniors and seniors, we settled down for the year of 1943 and 1944.

The sophomores were soon established in the various activities throughout the school. The members chosen for the student council were Marian Mangerelli and Bob Sickles. The two new cheerleaders were Pat Love and Georgine Cook. The sophomores were also well represented in the drum majorettes by Jean Troy and Dorris Garrity. The boys did well, too. We had several lettermen in football and we were well represented on the basketball floor.

Our first important item of business was the selection of a class ring. The selection was made by a ring committee.

We hope our future years in high school will prove as bright and successful as our sophomore year.

Noon

When light rode high and the dew was gone
And noon lay heavy on flower and tree.

—Shelley

There's Music in the Air

Russel M. Wood

The Music Department has been unusually active this year. The High School Band made the trips to both the Beaver and Beaver Falls football games, in addition to playing for the home games.

The band put on a fine performance at the War Bond Drive Show. The feature of its maneuvers was a huge cannon which fired the bass horn as the final part of the show.

For the Army-Navy "E" Awards at the Phoenix Glass Company and the St. Joseph Lead Company, the Monaca Band was asked to play. At both of these performances, recordings were made, and we had a chance to hear how we played. The results were gratifying.

The High School Orchestra, Mixed Chorus, and the Band presented a Winter Concert, December 9, that surpassed any before given. Features on this program were the popular tunes by the orchestra and chorus; the Christmas scene was a part of the chorus program; the Ragtime Wedding and Stormy Weather, with lighting effects, were presented by the band.

As a reward for promoting the concert, the members of the three groups were given a dinner-dance in January.

This year marks the second year for the Junior High School Orchestra and Band. Each group has taken a prominent part in Junior High activities. The second Junior High Concert was given, and it proved to be a marked improvement over the memorable one of the preceding year.

Mr. Wood has organized Tonette and Instrumental classes for sixth graders. He has also added a new Junior High music group that is very popular with both players and student body—the Dance Orchestra.

This year the Dramatic Club became interested in choral speaking. In this type of work ballads such as "Lord Love" and "Jesse James" were used. Poetry and Bible selections included "The Bells" and Psalm 24. Exercises in refrain, antiphonal, group, and unison work were practiced.

At the first meeting the new members were initiated. Each member's complexion was enhanced by plenty of make-up and odd designs. Each talked to an imaginary person. Some of the boys would have made good-looking girls if they had been properly attired. Later the Dramatic Club listened to poems on the victrola, for example, "Boots" and "The Cong".

Songs, dancing, games, and plenty of food made the Christmas party enjoyable. For the band concert, five members participated in a comedy sketch entitled "Ragtime Wedding". The assembly program included readings, poems, dialogues, short sketches, and choral speaking. At least two-thirds of the members took part.

The purpose of the organization is to have as many persons as possible doing some selection in the field of dramatics. Black-outs, short comedies, monologues, pantomimes, and dramatic selections provided practice and entertainment. Then, too, the chorus was a source of enjoyment for those who preferred to do group work.

The members also found the reading of three act plays and the giving of excerpts from them quite an interesting study. Dramatizing scenes from recent movies made an enthusiastic meeting. One program consisted of learning the different kinds of make-up and how to apply make-up for a few types of characters. For a final project, each was to make a stage set for the play he read or a movie he had seen. A contest was held to choose the most unusual set.

If the members gained some new ideas concerning the field and scope of dramatics, if they learned to express themselves better in giving dramatic selections, if they received a greater appreciation of what it takes to do drama work, or produce a play, then the year was worthwhile for the organization.

When school opened in September, the members of the Library Club "plunged" into work—organizing the library for the use of the rest of the school. As the membership of the club was at a low ebb, one of the first problems to face us was the election of new members. The new members would be so numerous as to outflank the old members, so we decided to have a contest for us to hold the "reins," we planned a grand initiation for them. This was held at Embree's farm on the 18th of September. The events included a snipe hunt, the experience of eating worms, and the classic sport of rolling eggs across a field with their noses. Then, we "softened up" and gave our new members a wiener roast.

Having duly initiated our new members, we then turned to the next big event in the library, which was Book Week. Because of the Senior class, we had its Book Week before the rest of the school. In the States; however, we enjoyed it just as much. The Library Club not only gave an assembly program for the Senior High entitled "America Moves Forward," but also sponsored one for the Junior High called "United Nations." To close Book Week, we planned a tag team which we realized thirty dollars. This amount enabled us to join the Book of the Month Club. This membership assures us of at least one new book a month for our readers.

As members of the Library Club, we felt very flattered when Mr. Groleau asked us to help in the public library. We were to keep it open during the day, thus giving more of the town's people a chance to use it. After much discussion, it was decided that two girls would work there for two weeks—alternating mornings and afternoons. This we would do in much school and yet be doing our civic duty. Aside from working in the public library, we worked in our own high school library—carding, shelving, and mending books. When the new books arrived, the Library Club always had a chance to look them over first and read what they chose before the rest of the school. This was our reward for the week which we worked.

However, the Library Club is not a social organization. We have our parties and good times just as any other club, but we are primarily a service club rather than a social organization.

As the year draws to a close, we pause to think back over the work and fun, laughter and tears, which went into making this a successful year for our club. As our seniors bid us farewell, we sent with them our best wishes. We will be all the more looking forward to making the Library Club better and better but more service to our school and community.

We Gladly Serve

The chief aim of the Junior Red Cross Council is to be of service to the National Red Cross, so that through our school we may be able to give aid more efficiently

The work of the Junior Red Cross is essentially the same as that of the senior organization. A glimpse into the records of good deeds reveals that this group has restored the "visual life" of several children by buying them glasses and by making examinations and eye tests possible

The girls of the Junior Red Cross Council of the Senior High School have made sterile dressings which have been placed in casualty stations throughout the town. The boys have been very faithful in taking the First-Aid course in order that they might also be of help in case of emergency

Junior Red Cross Council members have collected old magazines and newspapers which were sold to the paper dealer. Some of the money from the sale of paper was used here to buy necessary things with which to work. We were sufficiently fortunate in having some of our supplies sent to the National Red Cross

Christmas boxes were filled and sent to evacuee children in devastated war areas. This timely gesture gave us a feeling of pride and satisfaction

In the past, the boys of the Industrial Arts classes, as well as the boys of the Junior Red Cross Council of the Senior High School, have made ash stands for military hospitals in this country. This is one means by which the Red Cross helps to bring cheer to the suffering ones

The main social event of the first semester was a trip to Pittsburgh, where we attended a good movie which we enjoyed immensely. The evening was climaxed by a visit to the Colonial, which is located in Bellevue. Here we found good food "which was not difficult to take," as well as some outlet for exercise—dancing and bowling. In this way, we extended to Miss Helen Schupay, our faculty sponsor, our sincere best wishes for her success and happiness in her situation as a member of the Navy Nurses' Corps

To build into the lives of individual high school boys Christian character and ideals is the purpose of the Hi-Y Club. This Hi-Y movement is international and interdenominational fellowship endeavors "to create, maintain, and extend throughout school and community, high standards of Christian character. The official emblem is the Red Triangle representing Spirit, Mind and Body with the Cross in the center of the triangle. Clean Speech, Clean Sportsmanship, Clean Scholarship and Christian Living are the four planks in which the Hi-Y finds expression for its practical day-by-day life and work.

To every high school boy is given an opportunity to join the Hi-Y Club, if he is willing to accept the ideals of the organization as his guide for daily living, and to promote the Hi-Y movement.

Along with several brief after school meetings, the Hi-Y Club held its regular monthly evening meetings at which there was always a guest speaker followed by the social hour of good fellowship and fun. As a sports program, an excellent Hi-Y basketball team was organized with many games to its credit.

In February, the Hi-Y joined the Tri-Hi-Y in conducting a Bible class open to all the students in the high school under the guidance of Dr. Edwin G. Sloan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Monaca.

The Monaca Hi-Y Club was organized in 1928, by its faithful present-day sponsor, Mr. Reader. In commemorating its seventeenth anniversary, we honor our sponsor, our retiring president, and all our past presidents, most of whom are serving our country in the world's struggle for freedom.

Curtains open; stage lights flash on; we behold the beautiful setting; we hear the sound effects off stage. The play is on. Who is responsible for all this action you ask. The "Stage Crew" is responsible.

The Stage Crew, rightfully named, consists of these six boys who take from the opening of school in September until the end of May. It is the audience of students or townspeople may enjoy the assemblies, plays, moving pictures and outside productions. Their only compensation is the privilege of seeing the performances gratis. These stage managers attribute their efficiency and worthiness to their good, faithful friend, Mr. Earl Johns, who directs their work and who is ever more than generous with his assistance both to faculty and students.

The Senior Class Play, Mrs. M. Mayer gave the Crew quite a workout. In the first place we were not accustomed to having a stage set; it was our introduction to props and the like. Then, too, many sound effects were necessary, particularly in the staging of the air raid. No one had an opportunity to be "asleep at the switch." The services of Raymond Hild, Glenn Wisen, Robert DeLeon and Eric Brummitt were solicited for this performance. We also had the occasion to display plenty of know-how in the staging of a curtain call on their new idea. It meant continuous opening and closing of the curtain, they were geared for fast line operation.

With all the headaches, time and energy the Crew did have some very interesting experiences which they will always remember. Who knows, perhaps Hollywood will be wanting their services in a really large scale.

The most active group that has taken part in the Newspaper this year has been the juniors, closely followed by the sophomores and seniors. Although there have been few issues printed, the club has been active and everyone has taken an interest in it.

Due to the war, which caused a paper shortage, editions of the Newspaper have been limited. But, though there have been fewer than in previous years, we believe they have been bigger and better than ever. The members of the Newspaper Club have worked hard to achieve this standard, and we hope that the issues in the following years will continue to grow in quality of reading material and interest.

Much credit goes to the large number of juniors who have taken part, still the Senior Office Practice Girls are to be praised for their time and effort given to the typing and assembling of our ACANOM PAPOOSE. Also, credit must be given to the sophomores who have collected personals and editorials.

The members of the Staff and Club wish to express their sincere appreciation to Miss Hegner who has patiently guided them and sponsored the Newspaper Club.

We hope that in the near future the Newspaper Staff will have an outlet for training in journalistic writing, which will greatly enhance the choice of topics and improve our understanding and use of the tools of good writing. For the actual demands made upon the individual, this club can be recognized throughout the school as "tops" in organization, efficiency, and interest.

The Student Council is the representative body of the school. Its membership is composed of two representatives elected from each of the senior, junior, and sophomore classes together with the president of each class and the president of each organization in the high school. At the present time, the Student Council has a membership of thirteen students who are the leaders of the classes and organizations in the school.

The aims and purposes of the Student Council are as follows: (1) to promote the general activities of the school and its best interests, (2) to aid in the administration of student activities, (3) to induce the students to participate in school activities, (4) to foster sentiment of law and order, (5) to foster good scholarship, (6) to arouse school spirit, (7) to find school needs and help supply them, (8) to foster the principles of democratic government in the schools. These various purposes might be summarized in the one general aim of Student Council: to initiate, promote, and support those projects and activities which will be beneficial to the entire student body and will help and improve our school.

In working toward the accomplishment of these aims, Student Council has three important duties to perform: (1) to make a schedule for Junior and Senior High School assembly programs, (2) to conduct the election of class officers at the end of each school year, (3) to aid in the selection of the outstanding eighth grade boy and girls to whom the American Legion Awards are made.

At the beginning of the school year Student Council prepares a schedule of assembly programs. It is so arranged that each class, or homeroom, and organization is responsible for an assembly program. In all, some thirty programs are presented during the year with the Senior and Junior High Schools using the auditorium on alternate Wednesdays. Thus, student participation in school activities is encouraged, and students are given an opportunity to use abilities and talents that would not otherwise get a chance for expression.

At the close of the school year, each class and organization elects its officers for the coming year. After the nominations have been made, Student Council takes charge of the elections—having the ballots prepared, supervising the voting in each homeroom, and counting the ballots. Thus the duties and privileges of a citizen in a democracy are exemplified, and students get the experience of actually putting them into practice.

Student Council also has a part in the selection of the boy and the girl in the eighth grade to whom the American Legion Awards are made each year. The names of ten boys and ten girls are proposed on the basis of character, scholarship, and leadership. The students of the eighth grade then select the outstanding boy or girl by using the preferential type of voting. Student Council supervises the election and counts the ballots.

Throughout the year, Student Council considers and attempts those projects which are of benefit to the entire student body. Though many school activities become somewhat formalized and follow a set pattern, the special aim of Student Council is to try to initiate and promote new ideas and activities that will make our school a better school.

The Photography Club this year was very active socially and photographically.

Since the Photography Club members enjoyed themselves by attending a wiener roast, a sleigh ride, and a luncheon dance. Of these three social functions the most entertaining, by far, was the wiener roast which was held at Myrna Mateer's farm on the Broadhead Road. More than fifty club members attended this affair. The early part of the evening was spent in singing songs in front of the huge bonfires which had been built under the supervision of Andy Lopota and Albert Krall. Later in the evening, a "hot dog" eating contest was held. Bob Bell proved that he was the "hot-dog king" by eating fifteen wieners. Earl Brummitt won second place with only twelve. During the contest a monster was seen, that in many ways resembled a monster who was in the park. Not the least part of the evening was the creature could be faintly seen hiding behind a tree. After being many times seen by George Forrest and "Billy" McCullough—captured the monster who turned out to be our usually very quiet and dignified Mr. Laughlin wearing a luminous plastic skeleton mask.

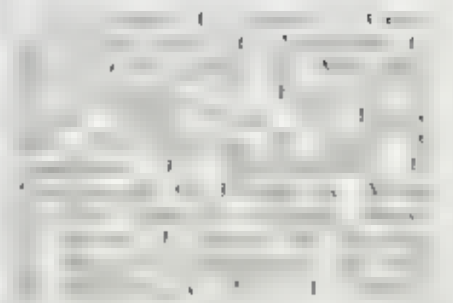

Photographically, the members spent most of their meetings taking time-flash and portrait flood light pictures which the students later developed and printed. These time-flash pictures were of two types: synchronic and non-synchronic. The students were more interested in taking of the non synchronic type of flash pictures, for these pictures could be taken inexpensively with the use of a home made flash arrangement which consisted mainly of the use of an ordinary flash light power lamp bulb. With the use of this device the Photography Club members were able to take very clear night time pictures.

Stanley J. Berkman, as coach of football, basketball, and baseball teams of Monaca High School since 1931, merits much praise and credit for producing teams that have maintained the reputation and high standards among the teams of the different high schools of Beaver County. His remarkable personality commands the respect and esteem of the boys whom he has trained. "Stan" as he is known by his many friends, has been a great factor in

ELIMINATIONS

After copping the Section XI Championship, the Monaca squad journeyed to the Pitt Stadium to play their first game in the elimination with Satsburg. The Red and Blue went to work and scored an easy victory over the Section XXII winners, thus upheld their tradition of never having lost an elimination contest at the Stadium. A big factor in the victory was Jim Hill, who got hot right from the start.

In the quarterfinals, however, the Monaca squad failed to capitalize on the opportunities at the foul line and bowed to Evans City in a very hard fought, tight battle. Although Monaca led for three quarters, the Section XXV winners managed to rally in the last quarter. This defeat eliminated the Red and Blue from the playoffs and thus closed the season for the Monaca High Squad.

RESUME

Monaca opened its 1943-44 season by coming from behind in the third period to earn a close victory over a crack Leetsdale five.

The Red and Blue then journeyed to Aliquippa, where they bowed to a superior, much taller team by a decisive score. Again they lost when they took on a fast Wampum team on the Monaca floor. However, by hitting their best stride of the year, they took over a favored team at East Liverpool to make the standing two out of four.

But again they lost, with few close moments in the game, when they visited Ambridge. In the next contest, Monaca sprinted ahead in the last period to vanquish the Crimson and Gold of New Brighton, but again dropped one to Wampum at Wampum. Because of a let-down in the final period, Monaca dropped the fifth game of their non-league series to Homestead's Class A quint. The very tall Beaver Falls team utterly crushed the Red and Blue on their own floor, but the Indians, although out-classed and outscored, never stopped fighting throughout the whole game.

Monaca opened its league season by meeting Rochester in Monaca. The Red and Blue went ahead in the second half to give the Rams a decisive drubbing. In the return game at Rochester, Monaca again defeated the Rams, thereby remaining at the head of the Section XI race.

In the first tangle with Beaver, Monaca lost out in a very close game, but they avenged their defeat by eliminating Beaver, as a competitor for first place, in their second game played at Monaca.

In the first battle with Freedom, the Monaca squad came out the victor—but with only a one-point margin. The game was close all the way, with Freedom leading most of the second half—but not quite far enough. The second game was very much like the first, until the Indians poured on the heat in the third chapter to go ahead and stay there. This game put Monaca two games ahead of their nearest runner-up in the Section XI race.

In the first game with Hopewell, Monaca took the lead in the first few minutes of the game and went on to win. In the second game, played at Aliquippa, the Red and Blue again won to cinch the Section XI title, since they were two games ahead, and with only one game left to play.

Monaca interrupted its league games after the first game with Hopewell by losing a non-league game to New Brighton. The Crimson and Gold avenged their early season defeat on their floor by outscoring the Red and Blue in all periods at Monaca.

Monaca's first game with Midland was a very tight, defensive battle. However, the Red and Blue managed to stay out in front and beat back a fourth-period rally by the Leopards to win by a close score. In the second game, the Indians took the lead in the first quarter and held it for the duration of the contest. This tangle closed Monaca's league season with Monaca taking the Section XI Championship for the sixth time in ten years.

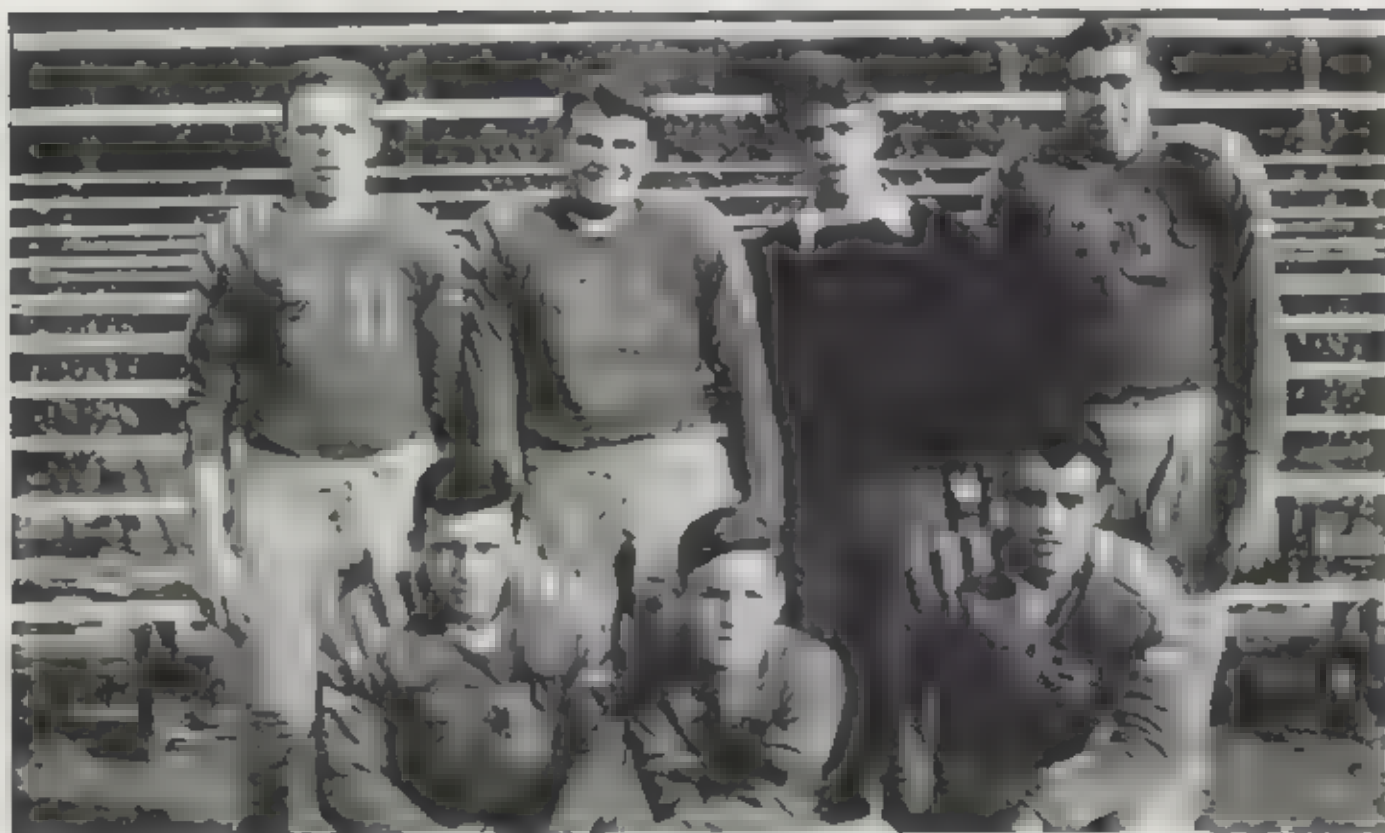

The Beaver Falls Giants again defeated Monaca by a one-sided score, when the Indians took a vacation from their league games after the first game with Midland. The Red and Blue were outscored in all periods, but were still battling at the final whistle.

On the previous pages, you have seen pictures of excellent boy athletes, accompanied by their records. On these pages, you will notice that we also have a great number of girl athletes.

Our program of events started in September with a double elimination volleyball tournament. The Notre Dame team, captained by Elda Roach, came through with top honors; the University of Southern California, captained by Mary Vular, ran a close second.

In November, the Bowling Tournament began with teams bowling three evenings a week at the National Bowling Alley. Our own capable girls acted as "pin boys."

The Ping-Pong Tournament got under way in January. Each evening after school, you would see the girls dashing down to the locker rooms to practice ping-pong.

During March, we had our Basketball Tournament, followed in April by the Badminton Tournament, the final one of the year.

In the course of the year, we enjoyed many outings, such as hiking, swimming, and horse-back riding. Points were earned by taking part in the various activities offered during the school year. At the end of the year, the girls having earned the required number of points were awarded monograms and pins.

Physical education is important at all times, in war or in peace; but in a war year, we are more convinced of the soundness and need of physical education. In our Monaca High School program, we find that never have the girls shown a greater interest in athletics and physical education than they have during the past year.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS

We, the Class of 1944, having been declared of sound mind and body as a result of having always eaten our "Wheaties" and spinach, do attempt to establish and ordain this document, our Last Will and Testament.

We request that it be remembered the brilliancy, originality, wittiness and cleverness as the outstanding features of our four years of high school.

To the faculty, we leave the rest of the student body to try to take our places

To the juniors, we leave our comfortable seats in Chapel.

To the sophomores, we leave Mr. Reader's study hall and all knowledge gained therein

To the freshmen, we leave the whole building and hope they treat it as gently as we did

To Mary O'Connor, Ella Anderson leaves her red-haired personality

June Anderson leaves her laughter to anyone who can smile as much as she did

To "Art" James, Catherine Antoline leaves their daily walks to school

To Jean Troy, Anna Mae Ballard wills her place as Majorette in the band

Calvin Barto leaves his "love" of school to the rest of the student body

Anna Battaglia leaves her dancing rhythm to Gertrude Anderson.

To Anna Johnston, Wanita Bauer leaves her serious studying

Robert Beharka leaves more handsome than when he entered

To "Hank" Grosshans, Robert Bell leaves his football tags.

Wilhelmina Blasche and Veronica Wywrot leave together

Helen Bobish leaves her short stature to Ellen Hall

To Dorothy Glancy, Virginia Boris leaves her quiet attitude

Freddy Barkhurst can take over Earl Brummitt's "way with the ladies."

"Spank" Busang leaves his quarterback position to Dale Laughner.

Pete Castronova leaves as sleepy as when he entered

Dorothy Ciccozzi leaves her mathematical ability to Emma Puhalla

To Shirley Bruce, Emilie Daniel leaves her "noisiness"

To "Dick" Setting, Lloyd Daugherty leaves his mechanical ability.

Walter Everley leaves the high school halls quiet until another noisy person comes along

Jean Farinacci wills her jolly manners to Erma Jane Barto

To Mary Vular, Violet Fauser leaves her commercial ability

Betty Jane Figley leaves her sister to carry on with the Figley name

Grace Folland leaves her quiet manner to Creola Grogg

George Forrest leaves Lillian Klingseisen to walk to and from school and-so-forth by herself.

Grace Fox also leaves her brother Ed to build up the students' morale and also the Fox morale

Joanne Gallagher leaves her personality and all-round charm to Mary Burns.

Sidney Gibson leaves his brother Bob the only one to run across the street at twenty-four minutes after eight

Mary Lou Graeser leaves her place in the orchestra and band to anyone who can play the cornet the way she does. (Try and do it)

Alma Greiner wills her brilliant speech to Jean Mulderick

Rita Gribben leaves her wittiness to Katherine Cochran

To Doris Cushnen, Anna Heckman leaves her dimpled personality

Betsy Herchenroether just can't seem to make up her mind to leave what to whom—as usual

Edwin Herman leaves school for good—he hopes

James Hill wills his athletic ability in basketball to his brother "Pat," hoping he'll do even better

To George Summerville, Ray Hild wills his "gigantic" height

Catherine Himes wills her "deep" voice to Georgine Cook

Lenora Huffmyer wills her speech to anyone who can talk as fast and frequently as she did

To Betty Gagianas, Rose Ann Jaros leaves her brilliancy

Edward Johnson leaves all his photography knowledge to Mr. Brennan

To Jack Parsons, Charles Johnston leaves his "love of the girls."

June Kallberg leaves her ability as an actress to Elda Roach

Lois Knopp leaves her ability as a dancer to her sister Alice

Cecelia Konevich wills her majorette uniform and baton to the next one stepping into her shoes

Joseph Korak leaves his "good conduct" and "marks" to his brother Carl—also his good looks

John Kovach leaves his sisters to walk down the hill themselves

Albert Krall leaves his "I can't make up my mind attitude" to the next unpredictable person

To Helen Martinchek, Gloria Mae Kugel leaves her "crazy" laugh

Gerald Laughlin leaves his thoughts to the next one with crazy ideas.

Anna Lewarchik leaves school to work full-time in Dan's Dairy.

Fred Lindemann leaves his big bass voice to all quiet students.

Marguerite Locke leaves her membership in the Dramatic Club to some future sophomore.

To some struggling underclassman goes Andrew Lopota's industriousness.

Angeline Lucci leaves her quiet, serious manner to Hazel Kronk

Eleanor McCandless leaves her cute looks to Judy Williams.

Imogene McCowin leaves her leadership to JoAnna Embree

William McCullough leaves Pat Oyster to walk to school by herself.

To Walter Miller go Donald Mandish's bright plaid shirts.

To Dorothy Krebs goes Eleanor Martincek's winning personality.

Anna Martinkovich leaves us memories of the fun we've had with her.

Ida Massey leaves Joe Renzo to lean on the railing outside Room 15 by himself

Gladith Mateer leaves her shy, quiet manner to her sister Myrna

John Mattica leaves the same way he came in—by the door.

Olga Matko leaves her daily bus rides from the country to whoever wants them.

Walter Poliak leaves as "quiet" as he came in

To all noisy students goes some of Evelyn Primo's quietness.

To Marion McCarthy go Dorothy Revay's fine athletic qualities.

Josephine Riddei leaves more beautiful than she entered

To all bold students goes some of George Rowse's bashfulness.

To Geraldine Clarke goes Anni Salberg's quiet industriousness.

Eunice Schachern wills her shortness to some six-footer.

Betty Schupay leaves her ability to have fun and to mix to some shy person.

Olivemae Sergeant leaves her studiousness to Helen Sack.

Richard Shafer leaves in his usual, quiet manner.

To Mary Ralish goes Anna Marie Shepard's ability to please others.

Doris Sickles leaves her long blonde hair to some dark-haired Miss.

Ruth Skvolka leaves as lively as ever.

To Margaret Didich goes Grace Slater's title of "a well-liked girl."

Doris Smith wills her thoughtfulness of others to Eleanor Phillips.

John Snyder leaves his bashful grin to Harry Glass.

Donald Stakic leaves the girls still guessing

Jean Strausser leaves her cheerfulness to her sister.

Anthony Taormina leaves his football uniform to anyone who can fill it as well as he did

John Tonsetic leaves us wanting to know him a lot better.

Frances Trella leaves the school strangely quiet.

Henry Trella leaves his position as a committee manager to anyone with as much ambition as he.

Jean Troy leaves her position as drummer in the band strangely quiet.

Celia Vancovich leaves Miss Hegner with less headaches in Office Practice Class

Fred Vogt leaves his wolf tactics to some shy sophomore.

Dale Watkins leaves his serious manner to Billy Bozett.

John Weigel leaves the girls still hoping for an acquaintance.

Dorothy Williams leaves her jolly spirit to Shirley Glasser.

Glenn Wilson leaves without even giving the girls a tumble.

To Mary Pevek goes Betty Wonert's fun-loving spirit

Veronica Wywrot leaves her bashfulness to anyone who wants it.

Mary Yambresic leaves her carefree spirit to Clara Mihalko.

Betty Jane Yanik leaves her cheerleader's togs to any girl who can do as good a job as she Ellenora Zachodni leaves as quiet as ever.

Mary Mecklem leaves her quietness (?) to Beryl Sullivan.

Lewis Fredericks leaves so he can sleep all he wishes to.

We hereby appoint the Junior Class as Chief Executors of this will and testament

In witness whereof, we have set our seal and have been given permission to publish this, our last will and testament, May 31, 1944.

Signed,

HE INSISTS

A Merchant Mariner, "Spank" Busong, who had just completed his training, was assigned to sea duty and was making his first trip.

Standing in the aft part of the ship was another "trainee," Donald Stakic, he was admiring a graceful seagull as it hovered, swooped and dipped to recover some scraps of food that had been thrown from the galley.

"What a beautiful pigeon," exclaimed "Spanky."

"That's a seagull," exclaimed Don.

"I don't care—gull or boy—it's a pretty pigeon!"

HOPEFUL

TRUE STORY

Betty Jane Yanik recently applied for a position in a government office. She asked the clerk how many girls worked in the office, and he said about half of them.

VENGEANCE

Miss Milliron was recently stopped in Detroit for driving through a stop sign and was given a ticket calling for her appearance in traffic court the following Monday. She went at once to the judge, told him that she had to be at her classes then, and asked for the immediate disposal of her case.

"So," said the judge sternly, "you're a teacher. That's fine. Madam, your presence here fulfills a long-standing ambition for me. For years I have yearned to have a school teacher in court."

"Now," he thundered, "you sit right down at that table over there and write. I went through a stop sign 500 times."

A HARDY BIRD

"The mule," wrote Jerry Laughlin, "is a hardier bird than the goose or turkey, and different. He wears his wings on the side of his head. He has two legs to walk with, two more to kick with, and is awful backward about going forward."

JUST PATRIOTIC

DOWN TO EARTH

Bill: "Speaking of facial characteristics, do you know that I was once taken for President Roosevelt?"

Will: "And a man once mistook me for the Kaiser."

Gus: "That's nothing, a few weeks ago an old school chum of mine stepped up to me on the street and remarked, 'Holy Moses, is that you?'"
